INJUNCTION HAS BEEN VIOLATED

Contempt Proceedings are Begun Against the Agitators.

That the Japanese associated with the activities of the Higher Wage Association have deliberately violated the injunction that was issued against them by Circuit Judge Robinson is declared in a motion for an order to show cause in contempt proceedings that were begun yesterday by the firm of Kinney, Ballou, Prosser and Anderson, the attorneys for the Oahu Sugar Company.

The order to show cause was granted by Judge Robinson and is made returnable Saturday morning, when the defendants named will have to explain the actions that led to the institution of the contempt proceedings against them. The order is directed against F. K. Makino, M. Negoro, M. Yamashiro, Hada, Kawakami, Fushino, Katsujama, Seno, Minuchi, Yanagida, Dambara, Matsuki, Fuji, Tanabe, Toshiro, Buntaro Tagawa, S. Nagao, S. Takata and K. Kawamura.

In the motion for the granting of the order to show cause it is declared that, despite the positive and mandatory prohibitory clauses of the injunction, the defendants have continued the picketing of the Oahu Sugar Company, Ltd., and by intimidation, threats and violence have prevented the Japanese who wished to return to work from following out their lawful privilege. The name of Oyama Torasaku is mentioned as the Japanese against whom the Higher Wage Association adopted the methods that were in deliberate violation of the injunction.

Affidavits Are Many. Attached to the motion is the affidavit of Oyama, which clearly shows the methods that the Higher Wage Association is using to maintain its influence over its followers. In the course of the affidavit the Japanese says:

"The strikers are divided into bands of twenty each provided with leaders. Whenever a man wishes to absent himself he is obliged to go to the leader and explain the reason and get permission in the form of a written pass. Men are checked up every morning and if anyone is absent without a pass other men are sent for him and search for him and locate him.

"On Saturday, July 10, 1909, I determined to return to work and in order to get back to Waipahu I applied to the office of the Waipahu branch of the Higher Wage Association in Honolulu who has charge of issuing passes stating that I wanted a pass for a week. I was informed I could not get a pass for a week and asked for a pass for three days and this was also refused, and I was told by the men who issue the passes that I could get a pass only for one day and that I could get to Waipahu, and if I wanted an extension of that time I would have to apply to the office at Waipahu. The officers of the association require you to give a reason for getting a pass and I gave as a reason that I had a friend at Waipahu who was sick. I left Honolulu in the train leaving at 2:15 and arrived at Waipahu at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. I met a friend named Sawada on the train whom I persuaded to come back to work with me. As we came up from the station and approached the office of the Waipahu Higher Wage Association, some of the pickets were on the veranda adjoining the street. I showed my pass because I had to in order to get by. While the pickets were examining my pass my friend Sawada disappeared and I have not seen him since. After I saw that Sawada had gone I became frightened and was afraid of trouble, so I went into the shop to buy a piece of cotton goods with the idea that that would bear out my story that I was going to see a sick friend, that being the custom among Japanese when a friend is sick. I was in the store bargaining and then Mr. Scoville came up and I accompanied him to the plantation office.

Threatened by Pickets. "Before I left Honolulu that noon I telephoned to Mr. Bull and asked him if I could come back to work. Mr. Bull said yes, and I asked him to have a policeman meet me at the station. I met Mr. Scoville at the station and Mr. Scoville told me and my friend to walk up the road ahead of him and that he would look after us. When I stopped to show my pass to the pickets, and while I was talking with the pickets, Mr. Scoville passed me in his automobile and that was when I made up my mind to buy the goods. I did not get my pass back from the pickets. I do not know where it is, it had the seal of the Honolulu office of the Waipahu branch of the Higher Wage Association. Deponent went into the office of the Higher Wage Association located back of Kato's store and there exhibited his pass or ticket to persons there assembled apparently in control. Deponent was there interrogated by Yanigeda and Dambara as to his intentions relative to going to work for the plantation and was then and there warned by said Yanigeda that in the event of his returning to work for the plantation after the present strike was over he would be tied and beaten by Japanese sympathizers with the strike and be caused great bodily harm and injury."

This affidavit shows plainly enough that the provisions of the injunction issued in the Circuit Court have been violated and that the pickets of the Higher Wage Association continue about the same line of work that was ordered to be stopped by the injunction.

Attached to the motion is an affidavit by Manager Bull of the Oahu Sugar Company, bearing out the statements made by Oyama in his affidavit. Another affidavit is by T. T. Taketa, and he shed considerable light on the operation of the pass system as now enforced among the strikers. Referring to the system of picketing the premises of the Oahu plantation, Taketa says: "These pickets would ask everyone coming up from the station whether they had tickets or not. If they had tickets they were surrendered to the picket. If they had none the picket inquired their names and took them down. The names of all who passed the pickets, whether with or without tickets, was entered in a book so that each entry showed whether the party passed had a ticket or not."

Roads Guarded.

An affidavit by Buntaro Tagawa states that all persons of Japanese nationality going to said Waipahu from Honolulu, from said Waipahu branch of said Higher Wage Association located at Honolulu, have a pass or ticket giving the name of the holder thereof and the length of time during which he may remain away from Honolulu. That said tickets or passes are taken up immediately upon the holders arriving at Waipahu and not returned to him until the expiration of his leave of absence. In the event of the holder of a ticket or pass overstaying his leave, he is requested to return to Honolulu or obtain an extension of his leave and in the event of his refusal to do so and his intention to go back to work he is threatened with bodily harm, as are persons without passes."

The fact that the roads leading from Waipahu on the Honolulu and Ewa side of Waipahu are guarded night and day by pickets and the fact that the picketing has continued in fact of the direct injunction of the court is also testified to by the Tagawa. An English translation of the pass that is issued by the Higher Wage Association is attested to by S. Sheba, editor of the Hawaii Shimpu, as follows:

"The above named men are granted traveling permission for imminent business, provided this is good only this day."

The indorsement on the back of the pass reads as follows: "Permitted to go out of town. The Waipahu Higher Wage Association. Office for resident members."

It is plain that a clear case of the violation of the injunction has been established by the attorneys for the Oahu Sugar Company and that Judge Robinson will in all probability so decide on Saturday.

FILIPINOS ARRIVED ON STEAMER KOREA

Forty-five Filipinos, the first of those who are to come to go to work on the plantations, arrived on the Korea Tuesday from the Orient and are now in quarantine on Quarantine Island. They will have to stay there seven days from the time of arrival before being released and allowed to come into the city.

Of the forty-five, all are men except three. The quarantine doctors say that they are about like the average run of Filipinos, small in size, about the same as the installment from our Far Eastern possessions that was brought here a year or two ago.

As soon as they are released from quarantine, they will be brought into the city to be sent out to the plantations to which they are assigned.
